The Authors beg leave to assure their very Respectable and numerous Subscribers, and the Publick, that they have done their utmost endeavours to procure the proper names of Places; but if any mistakes are, (tho' they wish them to be few, and of little importance) entreat they may be ascribed to y.e true cause, that is, the difficulty of obtaining proper information, and the arbitrary manner of writing them: That as it is their duty, in gratitude to a People, to whom they owe the greatest favours, so it is their utmost desire to give satisfaction in every particular; and will always consider it their highest honour, if they have in any measure succeeded.

A Supplement, entitled,

THE POST-CHAISE COMPANION, or, TRAVELLER'S DIRECTORY through IRELAND.

Neatly printed on fine paper, in crown octavo, and ornamented with a new map of the kingdom, and other ſuitable embelliſhments.

CONTAINING

A particular deſcription of the noblemen and gentlemen's ſeats that occur on each road,—an account, hiſtorical and deſcriptive, of every place in the kingdom remarkable for their antiquities,—revolutions,—beauty,—natural curioſities,—manufacture,—ſtate of agriculture,—poſt-towns,—loughs,—bays,—harbours. Together with many other additions, too numerous to mention, that can either afford inſtruction or entertainment to the traveller.

THE editor acquaints the public, that this work is compiled from the only authentic ſurvey ever made of the Roads in Ireland, by Meſſrs. TAYLOR and SKINNER, with aſſiſtance from many reſpectable noblemen and gentlemen. To accommodate former ſubſcribers to the firſt work, the SUPPLEMENT will be ſold ſeparate, at the moderate price of a Britiſh crown, ſewed. Such perſons, therefore, who have not as yet furniſhed a deſcription of their reſpective ſeats, are requeſted to ſupply the ſame, which ſhall be thankfully acknowledged.

SUBSCRIBERS NAMES will be received at Mr. WILSON's, No. 6; Mr. ALLEN's, No. 88, Dame-ſtreet, Dublin, and no where elſe in Ireland.
